STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE FOR THE USE OF FORCE AND FIREARMS

FOREWORD

Rwanda National Police is an organ responsible for the security of persons and property on the entire territory of the country, as stipulated in the Constitution of the Republic of Rwanda. It ensures compliance with the law and maintains public order throughout the country. Thus, the law entrusts the RNP with the powers to use force and firearms in order to fulfill its duties adequately.

The prerogatives to use force and firearms granted to the Police, come with subsequent obligations and responsibilities, particularly with regards to human rights, that may be affected by the exercise of these powers. It is in this line that the Rwanda National Police establishes the present Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) relating to the use of force and firearms, to enable police officers to professionally accomplish their duties while respecting the rights and freedoms of people.

This SOP will be very useful in providing police officers with the appropriate response to different situations encountered in the course of their challenging profession. It will also contribute to high quality service delivery and the safeguard of the rule of law.

I urge every Police officer in the Rwanda National Police to strictly comply with this directive.

Dan MUNYUZA
CG
Inspector General of Police

GUIDING INSTRUMENTS FOR THE USE OF FORCE AND FIREARMS

1. The following are national and international legal instruments guiding the use of force and firearms:
 - a. The Constitution of the Republic of Rwanda of 2003 as amended in 2015 (Articles 12, 13, 14, 26 and 41);
 - b. The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights of on 19 December 1966 (Article 6 and 7)
 - c. The Law N° 68/2018 of 30/08/2018 determining Offences and Penalties in General as amended to date (Article 86);
 - d. The Law N° 46/2010 of 14/12/2010 determining the Powers, Responsibilities, Organization and Functioning of the Rwanda National Police (Article 37, 38 and 39);
 - e. Law N° 56/2018 of 13/8/2018 relating to arms (Article 69);
 - f. The Universal Declaration of Human Rights of 10 December 1948;
 - g. The United Nations Basic Principles on the Use of Force and Firearms by Law Enforcement Officials (1990);
 - h. United Nations Code of Conduct for Law Enforcement Officials of 17 December 1979.

PURPOSE

2. The purpose of this Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) is to establish guidelines and procedure for the use of force and firearms in Rwanda National Police.

SCOPE

3. This Standard Operating Procedure applies to all police officers of Rwanda National Police. It will be reviewed whenever deemed necessary.

POLICY

4. The Rwanda National Police recognizes and respects the value of human life and the right of people to be secure in their persons and property. Police officers shall make every effort to preserve the sanctity of human life in all situations. It is the policy of the Rwanda National Police that police officers shall endeavour to accomplish their duties without using force and that the use of force is justified only when it is necessary and other means failed or may not succeed.

5. Officers shall use the minimum amount of force that is reasonable, necessary, and proportional based on the totality of the circumstances confronting the officers in order to bring about a lawful objective. The application of deadly force is a measure of last resort, only to be employed when all other options have been exhausted or would be ineffective. The Rwanda National Police is strongly committed to ensuring accountability and transparency regarding use of force.

DEFINITION OF KEY CONCEPTS

6. Under these SOPs the following terms shall carry the following meaning:

- a. Force. Any physical means including touching a person, use of firearm or means of restraint, deployed against a person in order to achieve a law enforcement purpose, in particular to obtain compliance with an order.
- b. Use of Force. The application of physical techniques, chemical agents or weapons to another person for law enforcement purpose. It is not a use of force when a person allows him/herself to be searched, escorted, handcuffed or restrained.
- c. Deadly Force. A type of force that involves either the high likelihood of causing death, or is used with the clear knowledge that it will lead to the loss of life.
- d. Non-deadly Force. An amount of force that under normal circumstances might cause bodily harm but would not be expected to result in great bodily harm or death.
- e. Weapon. Anything used, designed to be used or intended for use in causing death or injury to any person, or for the purpose of threatening or intimidating any person.
- f. Deadly-weapon. A weapon whose purpose is to cause death or that when used as an instrument of offense is capable of causing death or sometimes serious bodily harm
- g. Non-deadly Weapon. A weapon that is designed for the use of force without causing death.
- h. Firearms. Barrelled weapon of any description from which any shot, bullet or missile can be discharged.
- i. Instruments of Restraint. External mechanical devices such as handcuffs designed to restrict or immobilise the movement of a person's body, in whole or in part.
- j. Proportionality. Proportionality means that the risk of harm faced by a person should correspond in degree to the seriousness of the public interest that is being served by the use of force.
- k. Necessity. Means that no reasonably effective alternative to the use of force appeared to exist and that the amount of force used was reasonable to effect the lawful purpose intended.

- I. De-escalation. Actions used by officers, when safe and feasible without compromising law-enforcement priorities, that seek to reduce the immediacy of the threat, minimize the likelihood of the need to use force during an incident, and increase the likelihood of gaining voluntary compliance from a subject.
- m. Reasonable. The reasonableness inquiry refers to whether officer's actions are "objectively reasonable" in light of the facts and circumstances confronting him or her, without regard to their underlying intent or motivation.
- n. Reasonable Grounds. Reasonable grounds are information or facts that give a trained police officer a reasonable basis to believe that the subject is likely to inflict serious bodily harm or cause death to him or to another person.
- o. Serious Bodily Harm. Bodily harm that involves a substantial risk of death, extreme physical pain, protracted and obvious disfigurement; or protracted loss or impairment of the function of a bodily member, organ, or mental faculty.
- p. Warning Shot. The intentional discharge of a firearm in an attempt to warn or frighten a suspect in some action or inaction.

PRINCIPLES GOVERNING THE USE OF FORCE

7. General Principles. The following general principles shall govern police officers in the use of force:
 - a. Any use of force must respond to the principle of legality, proportionality, necessity and accountability;
 - b. In all cases, police officers should seek to avoid the need to resort to the use of force; they should proactively seek to resolve any situation through other means than the use of force, such as persuasion, negotiation, and de-escalation. Therefore, they shall, as far as possible, apply non-violent means before resorting to the use of force and firearms. They may use force and firearms only if other means remain ineffective or without any promise of achieving the intended result;
 - c. Any police officer present and observing another police officer using force that is beyond that which is objectively reasonable under the circumstances shall, when in a position to do so, safely intercede to prevent the use of such force. Officers shall immediately report these observations to the superior commander.

8. Use of Firearms. Whenever the lawful use of firearms is unavoidable, a police officer shall exercise restraint in such use and act in proportion to the seriousness of the offence and the legitimate objective to be achieved.

9. A firearm is considered as being used if the weapon is:
- drawn from its holster;
 - pointed at another person;
 - discharged in any circumstances, including intentional or unintentional discharge;
 - fired at another person in self-defence or in defence of another, whether or not death or injury results.
10. Firearms shall not be used against persons except in self-defence or defence of others against the imminent threat of death or serious injury, to prevent the perpetration of a crime involving serious threat to life, to arrest a person presenting such a danger and resisting their authority, to prevent his or her escape, or to protect property and only when less extreme means are insufficient to achieve these objectives and on condition of proportionality.
11. A police officer must justify each fired shot. The use of firearms shall be preceded by a verbal warning, where possible, and a warning shot to the offending person.
12. Use of Deadly Force. An officer shall use the following criteria when making the decision to use deadly force:
- Ability. The subject has the means to carry out his/her intent to cause death or great bodily harm;
 - Opportunity. The subject's action is imminent and the subject is in a position where he/she can carry out the act or threat;
 - Intent. The subject's firm resolve to commit an action which may result in serious bodily injury or death to a third person.
13. Deadly force can only be used under the conditions of extreme necessity and when all lesser means have failed or cannot be reasonably employed. A police officer may use deadly force to:
- defend him/herself against an imminent danger of death or serious bodily harm;
 - prevent the commission of a felony threatening the life of persons or likely to cause serious bodily harm;
 - deal with a person in possession of weapons causing threat to the life of persons or to be used in terrorism ;
 - apprehend a person or prevent the escape of a person using a weapon or who otherwise indicates that he or she poses a significant threat of death or serious bodily harm to the police officer or others unless apprehended without delay;
 - protect the property or infrastructure under his/her protection when other non-lethal means have failed and using proportional means.

14. Use of Force When Effecting Arrest. Officers need not retreat or desist from efforts to make a lawful arrest because of the resistance or threatened resistance to the arrest. Prior to effecting an arrest, several factors are to be considered to decide on the necessary and proportionate force to be used:

- a. the charge(s) or allegation(s) against the individual;
- b. known characteristics of the individual;
- c. whether he or she is expected or known to resist arrest;
- d. whether he or she is expected to be armed;
- e. history of arrests or convictions, if any;
- f. nature of previous encounters with the police, particularly whether violent behaviour was displayed;
- g. the location of the anticipated arrest;
- h. whether other individuals are expected to be at the location of the arrest and the risk which may be posed by such individuals;
- i. measures to reduce the risk of harm to the individual, third parties, and police officers.

15. The lawful use of force and firearms during arrests must be a measure of last resort and limited to circumstances in which it is strictly necessary in order to carry out an arrest.

16. If the use of force is absolutely necessary, the level of force must be proportionate and the use of firearms must be strictly limited to the arrest of a person presenting an imminent threat of death or serious injury; to prevent the commission of a crime involving grave threat to life, and only when less extreme measures are insufficient to make the arrest.

17. Whenever an individual is arrested after use of force, record shall be made of his/her physical condition at the time of being brought into custody, noting any marks, bruises, other signs of injury observed or complained of by such a person.

AUTHORIZED WEAPONS AND INSTRUMENTS IN THE USE OF FORCE

18. The following weapons and instruments are authorised to be used by RNP police officers:

- a. Batons;
- b. shields;
- c. handcuffs;
- d. barriers;
- e. tear gas;

- f. water cannons;
- g. Tasers;
- h. rubber bullets;
- i. firearms.

USE OF FORCE PROHIBITIONS

- 19. Force should not be used:
 - a. to retaliate;
 - b. against individuals who only verbally confront the officers, unless the vocalization impedes or may impede a legitimate law enforcement function, or contains specific threats to harm the officers or others;
 - c. to obtain any information, admission of fact or confession of guilt;
 - d. against vulnerable persons except in circumstances where the person's actions must be stopped to prevent self-injury or loss of life;
 - e. against individuals or groups based on discrimination of any kind;
 - f. against a restrained or handcuffed individual unless the force is necessary:
 - (1) to prevent imminent bodily harm to the officer or another person;
 - (2) to overcome active resistance;
 - (3) to move an individual who is passively resisting.
- 20. It is further prohibited to:
 - a. use canine units for control or intimidation of detainees;
 - b. use neck holds unless deadly force is justified;
 - c. use intentional baton strikes to the head, face, groin, solar plexus, neck, kidneys, or spinal column;
 - d. strike a detainee when grasping or pushing him/her would achieve the desired result;
 - e. use force against a detainee offering no resistance;
 - f. restrain detainees to fixed objects not designed for restraint;
 - g. use force to gain compliance with an unlawful command;
 - h. engage in actions or tactics or making statements that escalate a situation such that the use of force becomes necessary;
 - i. use non-deadly weapons or deadly ammunitions at an individual in a crowded environment if, based upon the totality of the circumstances, the danger of hitting an innocent bystander outweigh the necessity and likelihood of stopping the individual;
 - j. use deadly force against any individual who is threatening suicide or self-injury when that individual is not posing a threat to anyone else;

k. carry or use any weapon not authorized by the Rwanda National Police. Examples of unauthorized weapons include, but are not limited to: machete, knife, opportunity batons. However, folding pocket knives (with a blade of less than 10 centimetres) may be carried for utility purposes.

SUBJECT RESISTANCE AND LEVELS OF OFFICERS' RESPONSE

21. Types of subject resistance. In his/her daily work, a police officer may expect the following types of resistance from the subject:

- a. Passive Resistance. The subject verbally or physically refuses to comply with an officer's lawful command causing the officer to use physical contact to establish control (e.g. refusing to leave an area and not obeying a lawful order).
- b. Active Resistance. Behaviours which physically counteract an officer's control efforts and which create a risk of bodily harm to the officer, subject or other persons.
- c. Aggressive (Assaultive) Resistance. Direct actions or conduct that may generate bodily harm; physical pain or injury, illness or any impairment of physical condition to the officer or others.
- d. Aggravated Resistance. The subject makes hostile attacking movements with or without a weapon that create reasonable grounds to believe that the subject intends to cause, and has the capability of causing, death or great bodily harm to the officer or others.

22. Level of Response (Use of Force Continuum)

- a. Officer Presence. Officer's presence in uniform with nonthreatening attitude deters crime and defuses the situation.
- b. Communication. The officer is expected to issue calm, non-threatening commands like giving suggestions, advice, repetitive commands coupled with facial expressions, stance, eye contact and sometimes short commands such as "stop", "don't move" in an attempt to gain compliance.
- c. Empty Hand Control (Physical Control). The officer uses bodily force to gain control of a situation. This might be through soft techniques or hard technique to restrain an individual.
- d. Non-deadly Force Methods. The officer uses non-deadly force instruments to gain control of a situation such as baton, chemical sprays, Taser, Tear Gas, etc.
- e. Deadly Force. Deadly force is used only when there are reasonable grounds to believe that the subject of such force poses an imminent danger of death or grievous bodily harm to the officer or to another person.

23. The level of compliance or resistance exhibited by a subject determines the level of control used by the officer. Police officers shall respond with a level of force appropriate to the situation at hand, as shown in the table below:

SUBJECT RESISTANCE AND LEVELS OF OFFICER'S RESPONSE

ACTIONS	OFFICER'S RESPONSE
No resistance. The subject is offering no resistance or threat	Officer's presence in uniform with non-threatening attitude
Passive resistance. The subject verbally or physically refuses to comply with an officer's lawful command (e.g. refusing to leave an area and not obeying a lawful order).	Communication. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The officer issues calm, non-threatening commands like giving suggestions, advice, repetitive commands coupled with facial expressions, stance, eye contact and sometimes short commands such as "stop", "don't move" in an attempt to gain compliance. Assistance from other officers
Active resistance. Behaviours which physically counteract an officer's control efforts and which create a risk of bodily harm to the officer, subject or other persons.	Empty hand control techniques. The officer uses bodily force to gain control of a situation. This might be through soft techniques or hard technique to restrain an individual.
Aggressive resistance. Direct actions or conduct that may generate bodily harm; physical pain or injury, illness or any impairment of physical condition to the officer or others.	Non-deadly force Methods. The officer uses non-deadly force instruments to gain control of a situation such as baton, chemical sprays, Taser, Tear Gas, etc.
Aggravated resistance. The subject makes hostile attacking movements with or without a weapon that create reasonable grounds to believe that the subject intends to cause, and has the capability of causing, death or great bodily harm to the officer or others (e.g. uses weapons against the officer, attempts to disarm the officer, has a life-threatening weapon)	Deadly Force. Deadly force is used only when there are reasonable grounds to believe that the subject of such force poses an imminent danger of death or grievous bodily harm to the officer or to another person.

FACTORS FOR DETERMINING PROPORTIONALITY AND REASONABLENESS

24. In determining whether or not to apply any level of force, and in evaluating whether a police officer has used appropriate force, a number of factors should be taken into consideration: These include, but are not limited to:

a. Subject Factors

- (1) Seriousness of the crime committed;
- (2) Size, and weight of the subject;
- (3) Apparent physical ability of the individual;
- (4) Weapons possessed by or available to the subject;
- (5) Known history of violence;
- (6) Medical condition, mental state and influence of alcohol or drugs;
- (7) Number of subjects present who are involved or who may become involved.

b. Situational Factors

- (1) Size, physical ability and officer's defensive skills;
- (2) Number of officers present or available;
- (3) Presence of innocent or potential victims in the area;
- (4) Weapons or restraint devices available to the officer;
- (5) Whether the subject can be captured later;
- (6) Environmental factors;
- (7) Whether evidence is likely to be destroyed.

c. Other Factors

- (1) Legal requirements
- (2) Rwanda National Police policy.

USE OF FORCE IN HANDLING DETAINEES

25. General Guidelines. The following are general guidelines in the handling of detainees:

- a. Police officers, in their relations with persons in custody or detention, shall not use force, except when strictly necessary for the maintenance of security and order within the institution, or when personal safety is threatened;

- b. Police officers shall attempt to gain a detainee's willing cooperation before using force;
 - c. police officers shall not use firearms, except in self-defence or in the defence of others against the immediate threat of death or serious injury, or when strictly necessary to prevent the escape of a person in custody or detention presenting the danger to the life of the officer or others;
 - d. Any force employed against a detainee must immediately cease when the person detained is no longer resisting.
26. Police officers shall not use deadly force against an individual who is fleeing or attempting to escape unless:
- a. There are reasonable grounds to believe that the individual has committed or is in the process of committing a felony involving the infliction or threatened infliction of death or serious physical injury;
 - b. If permitted to flee or escape, the individual would pose a significant threat of death or serious physical injury to the officer(s) or others if not apprehended;
 - c. The officer(s) have identified themselves as police officer(s), have stated the intention to use deadly force, and have given the individual a reasonable opportunity to comply with lawful orders and directions, if time, safety, and the totality of the circumstances permit.
27. When feasible, the officer(s) shall give verbal warnings and fire a warning shot prior to the use of deadly force.
28. Disciplinary sanctions or restrictions on detainees must never amount to torture, cruelty, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment. Force should never be used for the purpose of punishment. The following practices are prohibited and may amount to torture or cruel or degrading treatment:
- a. placement of a detainee in a dark or constantly lit cell;
 - b. corporal punishment;
 - c. the reduction of detainee's diet or drinking water;
 - d. collective punishment;
 - e. use of chains, irons and other instruments of restraint which are inherently degrading or painful.
29. In situations of large-scale violent disorder in detention facilities, de-escalation must be the preferred mode of action, and a distinction made between those detainees who are engaged in violence and those who are not. Interventions by authorities must seek to minimize loss of life, injury or damage, and firearms may only be used to protect against such threats.

30. Restraint. Restraint shall be guided by the following principles:
- a. Where detainees are moving from one place to another they will be under restraint;
 - b. Instruments of restraint are to be used only when no lesser form of control would be effective to address the risks posed by unrestricted movement;
 - c. Instruments of restraint shall be used only as a precaution against escape during transfer; for medical reasons, when directed by the medical officer; or to prevent self-injury, injury to others, or property damage;
 - d. Restraints shall be applied for the least amount of time necessary to achieve the desired behavioural objectives;
 - e. The method of restraint shall be the least intrusive that is necessary and reasonably available to control the detainee's movement, based on the level and nature of the risks posed;
 - f. Restraint equipment or devices should not be used on a detainee's neck or face, or in any manner that restricts blood circulation or obstructs the detainee's airways (e.g., mouth, nose, neck, oesophagus);
 - g. Instruments of restraint shall be used only for the time period required, and they are to be removed as soon as possible after the risks posed by unrestricted movement are no longer present;
 - h. Use of handcuffs during a detainee's transfer is permissible as a precaution against escape but shall be removed when the detainee appears before judicial or administrative authority unless such a detainee may cause a serious threat to life if not restrained.

31. Restraint on Pregnant Women. A pregnant woman or woman in post-delivery recuperation shall not be restrained except in extraordinary circumstances that render restraint absolutely necessary. These are cases where:

- a. a medical officer has directed the use of restraint for medical reasons;
- b. credible, reasonable grounds exist to believe the detainee presents an immediate and serious threat of hurting herself or others;
- c. reasonable grounds exist to believe the detainee presents an immediate and credible risk of escape that cannot be reasonably minimized through any other method.

32. This prohibition of restraint on pregnant women applies to all pregnant women in the custody, whether during transport, in a detention facility, or at an outside medical facility.

33. Medical Attention In Case of Use Of Force. Where a detainee enters custody with visible injuries (whether arising from the arrest or not), complains of illness or pain, falls unconscious, or appears to be mentally ill, the officer in charge of the custody shall ensure that medical attention and care are provided, as soon as practicable, to the detainee. The status of the detainee should be recorded as soon as noticed.

34. If a situation arises involving a detainee with special needs i.e. detainees with physical, intellectual, and developmental disabilities and detainees with a mental health condition that may impair their ability to understand the situation; the appropriate medical or mental health staff shall be consulted prior to the use of force unless waiting for such intervention would defeat the law enforcement purpose.

USE OF FORCE IN THE MANAGEMENT OF CROWDS

35. Everyone has the right to participate in lawful and peaceful assemblies, in accordance with the principles embodied in the Constitution of the Republic of Rwanda. Police officers shall disperse any unlawful assembly.

36. In the dispersal of assemblies that are unlawful but non-violent, police officers shall avoid the use of force or, where that is not practicable, shall restrict such force to the minimum extent necessary.

37. Police officers are encouraged to use, where possible, conflict prevention, mediation or other effective dispute resolution mechanisms to resolve conflicts.

38. In cases where physical obstacles are deployed in a protest or assembly, an attempt should be made to negotiate or de-escalate the situation before seeking to remove any debris or barriers.

39. In the dispersal of violent assemblies, firearms may be used only as a last resort, if other means are not practicable in the circumstances, where it is required in instances of self-defence, or defence of another, against an imminent threat of death or serious injury.

40. Deadly or non-deadly weapons, where the laws allows their use, should not be fired randomly at an assembly, but must be aimed exclusively at the persons engaged in violence, and only when other methods have failed to stop the violence. Such weapons should be aimed at the lower part of the body so as to minimize the risk of serious injury.

41. Devices with indiscriminate effects and a high potential of harm, such as tear gas and water cannons, may only be used in situations for the purpose of dispersing a violent assembly, and only when all other means have failed to contain the violence.

42. Officers shall take reasonable steps under the circumstances, before and during any use of force, to avoid unnecessary risk to bystanders, victims, hostages, and other involved civilians, as well as other officers and emergency personnel.

43. In cases of planned assemblies, arrangements are to be made for medical assistance to be in close proximity.

44. Police officers should be equipped with loud speakers to issue the commands to the assembly. Clear audible warnings must be issued prior to use of chemical irritants and participants must be given sufficient time to leave the area, except in cases where delay would create an immediate risk of death or serious injury to the police officers or any other person, or when giving such a warning is impossible in the circumstances.

45. When feasible, and when doing so would not increase the danger to officers or others, officers shall issue a verbal warning to the individual prior to using force.

46. The following acts are prohibited for police officers during assemblies:

- a. discharging cartridges with chemical irritants directly at a person;
- b. use of automatic firearms;
- c. firing live ammunition in the direction of assemblies;
- d. mass arrests (without an offence being committed by each arrested individual);
- e. provocation of participants;
- f. use of force against trapped individuals.

SAFETY AND SECURITY OF POLICE OFFICERS ON DUTY

47. In any use of force operation, the safety and security of police officers should be a priority.

48. The right to self-defence is fully recognized to police officers under any circumstance. Nothing in this SOP shall prevent an officer from utilizing unauthorized weapons, any weapon of opportunity or any readily available object as a defensive weapon in circumstances or situations where the actions of an assailant could result in injury or death and that the use of the object is reasonable, proportional and necessary.

49. Police officers frequently employ force to affect an arrest and ensure public safety. It is not intended that a suspect ever be allowed to be the first to exercise force, thus gaining an advantage in a physical confrontation.

50. Nothing in this SOP should be interpreted to mean that a police officer is required to engage in hand to hand combat (with all its risks) before resorting to the use of force that will more quickly, humanely and safely bring an arrestee under physical control.

51. Police officers must use appropriate force and need not retreat or desist when physical force is necessary to affect an arrest, prevent an escape, gain compliance or overcome resistance.

OFFICERS' RESPONSIBILITIES AFTER USE OF FORCE INCIDENT

52. Responsibilities of the Officer Involved in the Use of Force. An officer involved in the use of force whether in non-deadly or deadly force incident shall have the following responsibilities:

- a. obtain or administer first aid when safely possible;
- b. immediately summon medical treatment in case of injury
- c. notify his/her immediate superior;
- d. provide a detailed description of actions taken and the details of the incident for documentation;
- e. secure the scene and request sufficient back-up force if necessary;
- f. remain at the scene (unless injured) until the support arrives.

53. The Superior's Responsibilities. The superior must:

- a. respond promptly, transparently and effectively to incidents of abuse whenever they occur, in order to avoid them developing into customs and patterns that will be hard to change;
- b. treat victims of crime and of law enforcement violence, with respect;
- c. interview all witnesses to the incident including witness officers;
- d. facilitate and support lawful investigation and oversight;
- e. notify the chain of command;
- f. ensure the security and integrity of the scene;
- g. obtain a statement from the subject;
- h. ensure that relatives or close friends of the injured person are notified at the earliest opportunity;
- i. make an evaluation of the incident;
- j. provide psychological support and counseling to the involved officer;
- k. defuse of community tension.

COMMAND RESPONSIBILITY

54. With respect to the use of force and firearms, the commander has the following general responsibilities:

- a. ensure close supervision, coaching and counselling of staff are in place;
- b. identify psychological or social problems of their staff that may affect their mental well-being and health;
- c. ensure proper planning of operations;
- d. brief police officers under their command before undertaking any task assigned to them.

55. All operations involving use of force must be properly and meticulously planned to avoid, as far as possible, the instantaneous decision making which can lead to fatal use of force.

56. Plans must be written where possible, provide for responses to reasonably foreseeable actions. Operations must be planned and controlled so as to minimize, to the greatest extent possible, the need to resort to the use of force or potentially deadly force.

57. Operation must:

- a. have a legitimate aim;
- b. be lawful;
- c. be proportionate;
- d. be justified;
- e. be the least intrusive or damaging to the rights of individuals.

58. The commander will be held accountable for:

- a. poor planning and preparation of the operation;
- b. issuing unclear, misleading or unlawful orders to the staff;
- c. failure to issue briefing prior to staff deployment;
- d. failure to command and control the operation in a manner that takes all precautions to ensure that police officers are not exposed to unnecessary risks of violent confrontations;
- e. failure to assess the social and psychological factors that are likely to expose the police officers to the use of force;
- f. failure to take all measures in their power to detect, prevent, suppress or report the use of force if they knew, or should have known, through the proper discharge of their duties, that police officers under their command are, or may be resorting, or have resorted, to the unlawful use of force;

g. obstructing or misleading the investigation of the judicial organs or the oversight body.

59. Obedience to superior orders shall be no defence if the police officer knew that an order to use force and firearms resulting in the death or serious injury of a person was manifestly unlawful and had a reasonable opportunity to refuse to follow it. In any case, responsibility also rests on the superiors who gave the unlawful orders.

REPORTING USE OF FORCE INCIDENTS AND ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW

60. Reporting Incident. A police officer involved in shooting incidents whether involving death or serious injuries or not, must immediately report it to his/her superior. The latter shall make a detailed report and submit it to the chain of command for administrative review and further action. A copy of the report shall be sent to the Department of Intelligence for administrative investigation.

61. Administrative Investigation. An administrative investigation shall take place in case of:

- a. accidental or intentional use of deadly force by an officer, whether or not injury or death occurs;
- b. all incidents involving the intentional discharge of a firearm;
- c. all incidents resulting in great bodily harm or death to a person by an officers use of force;
- d. a complaint received from a citizen alleging that an officer used excessive force resulting in injury to a person.

62. The administrative investigation shall:

- a. establish the full facts of the incident;
- b. ensure that culpable and discreditable conduct is uncovered;
- c. assess whether rules, policies or procedures were breached;
- d. identify and remedy the unprofessional practices, where necessary;
- e. initiate disciplinary procedures in case of unreasonable use of force.

63. The administrative investigation will be independent, objective and impartial. The administrative report shall be submitted to the Inspector General within 5 days.

64. The scope of the investigation must include all the surrounding circumstances of any death or injury, particularly the events prior, during and after the incident. This will include: operational plans, briefings, command and control, and interviews with all personnel involved.

65. In determining whether an officer's use of force is reasonable in a particular case, it is necessary to evaluate the facts and circumstances confronting the officer at the time force was administered.

66. The reasonableness of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene, and its determination must embody an allowance for the fact that police officers are often forced to make split second decisions about the amount of force necessary in a particular situation.

67. The totality of circumstances includes consideration of the subject's form of resistance, all reasonably perceived factors that may have an effect on the situation, and the response options available to the officer.

68. Cooperation with Judicial Organs. The administrative investigation shall not affect the conduct of criminal investigations by competent judicial organs. Police officers shall cooperate with the judicial organs to facilitate investigations.

TRAINING ON THE USE OF FORCE

69. Prior to enrolment for basic training, all new recruits must undergo a proper vetting with a view to ensuring that those with prior involvement in human rights violations and/or connections to criminal activities are excluded from consideration.

70. Selection criteria should include the moral integrity of the candidate and his or her psychological stability and ability to react appropriately to stressful situations.

71. All police officers shall receive training on the use of force prior to their deployment. Training on the use of force must be part and parcel of the curricula of all police training schools and shall include among other subjects:

- a. legal framework on the use of force, firearms and deadly force;
- b. ethics and the permissible rights and freedoms of citizens;
- c. de-escalation strategies, negotiation and mediation tactics;
- d. use of alternative non-deadly weapons and equipment;
- e. self-defense and physical and empty hand techniques to control aggressive persons;

- f. communication, risk assessment, decision making and peaceful resolution of conflicts;
- g. first aid training at the basic level;
- h. use of Force Continuum;
- i. understanding the dynamics of crowd behavior;
- j. instinctive shooting and deliberate aimed shooting.

72. Training of police officers must be based on realistic scenarios, acquainting them with the wide range of situations and challenges they may encounter in their daily practice. Such training must be continually evaluated as to its effectiveness in ensuring Rwanda National Police is staffed with professional police officers who meet the high standards required.

73. Schools must regularly review their training programmes in light of previous incidents and refresher courses shall be organised on annual basis to sharpen the officers. These trainings must be documented in the officers' records.
